DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

This application contains claim directed to more than one species of the generic invention. These species are deemed to lack unity of invention because they are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

The species are as follows: For claim 1, elect a single compound and explain how the structure is derived for that elected species from the groups of Z, R<sup>a</sup>, R<sup>b</sup>, R<sup>c</sup> and R<sup>d</sup>. The elected structure classified in class 514, subclass various depending on species election and further restriction will be made based on the election.

Applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single species to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. The reply must also identify the claims readable on the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered non-responsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

The claims are deemed to correspond to the species listed above in the following manner:

Group I - Claim 1

The following claim in Group I is generic: Claim 1.

The species listed above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: The compounds, the derivative of polyazoles, which have a high heat resistance, encompassed by the instant claim have already been described in the prior art (NPL- Moon et al J. Polymer Science, 1970, 8 3665-3666, listed in IDS), page 3665-paragraph 1 and 2. Accordingly, the claims do not provide a new inventive concept over the prior art and thus they lack of unity of invention.
